Why join the Ontario Aquaculture Association?

1. Have your voice heard

- Be part of setting OAA's advocacy agenda at all three levels of government on issues of industry importance
- Ensure your business or organization is represented during discussions with government, regulators, and the media
- Provide information on issues that impact the aquaculture industry in Ontario and beyond

2. Increase your profile

- Profile your business or organization on the OAA's new website (coming in spring 2018), which includes member listings and 'Meet the Growers' profiles
- Have your business or organization promoted at high-profile trade shows, culinary events, government events, and so on
- Network with industry, government, and research partners to deepen relationships and contacts

3. Get access and stay in the know

- Participate in OAA's annual conferences with free or discounted tickets. All Sustaining and Patron members receive two free tickets, and Supporting members receive one. All other members or additional persons receive discounted tickets
- Receive communications from the association about relevant industry news, such as regulatory changes, grant programs, or collaboration opportunities
- Access the OAA member directory and website
